THE Turbine Windmill

Is the result of constant study and experiment for many years on the part of the inventor, who has devoted his whole time exclusively to the subject of Windmills for eight years.

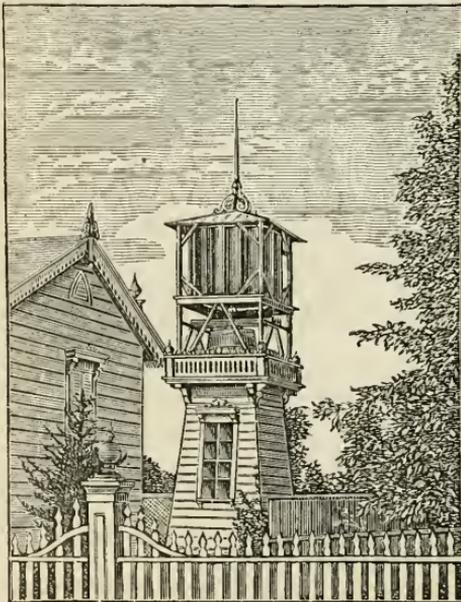

Since coming to this coast, now over two years ago, the inventor of the TURBINE has applied himself diligently to thoroughly adapt his mill to the wants of this climate, and has made several useful improvements to accomplish that end, and although much improved, the mills have been reduced in price.
