Suisun City, Solano Co, adjoins Fairfield on the south, stands at the head of navigation on the arm of Suisun Bay, and is also a station, in connection with Fairfield, on the California Pacific Railroad. Previous to the construction of the Railroad, it was the shipping point of a rich section of country, and much of its trade has been diverted to new channels. With convenient navigation, and in the midst of a fertile region, it must continue to be a place of considerable importance. One newspaper, the Solano Republican, is published weekly.
