Borax City, Churchill Co, P O address,

Wadsworth, Washoe County, 12 miles west of Stillwater, is in the valley of the Carson River, and surrounded by an excellent farming and grazing region, the fertile basin having an extent of three miles in breadth by twelve long. The principal business of the town is in refining borax obtained from the waters of the neighborhood, and from the borate beds of Columbus, in Esmeralda County. Large shipments of this article are made to the markets of the world. The large refinery houses present quite a business-like appearance, and are well situated for the purpose, having hot and cold water furnished by nature from contiguous springs.

Carlin, Elko Co, P O 23 miles s w of Elko, is a village of some 550 inhabitants, and division station on the Central Pacific Railroad, in the valley of the Humboldt River. Here are extensive machine and repair shops, and other important buildings of the railroad company; and it is also a distributing point to several mining districts. The Humboldt River is here a rapid stream, with fall sufficient to afford abundant water-power for extensive machinery.

Carson City, Ormsby Co, P O, County seat

and capital of the State, is situated in Eagle Valley, near Carson River, in the midst of a fertile section of country, and has pleasant and romantic surroundings. The lofty Sierra Nevada rises abruptly from the valley on the west, clothed in the perpetual green of noble pine forests, and far to the east and north extends the broad valley of the Carson. The seat of government of Nevada is located here, and the capital, a beautiful building, and the U. S. Branch Mint, are conspicuous ornaments to the town. At Warm Springs, two miles east, is the State Prison. These public institutions constitute an important resource of the place, and add to its importance and prosperity. The Virginia and Truckee Railroad, connecting Virginia City with the Central Pacific at Reno, passes through the place, and transacts a large business. That portion running to Virginia City and Gold Hill, is chiefly engaged in transporting ores from the mines at those places to the mills on the Carson River, and returning with fire wood, mine timbers and lumber from the forests of the Sierra flanking that stream. Stage lines are established to every surrounding town, and the telegraph puts it in instantaneous communication with the world. Carson was established as a ranch prior to the discovery of silver in the Comstock ledge, and immediately thereafter population flowed into that hitherto wilderness, and its advantageous and pleasant location was made manifest. Then a fine city was rapidly built up. The vast amount of travel to Nevada filled its streets and enriched its business places as it passed, but the construction of the Pacific Railroad by a more northern route, changed the line of transportation, and the capital became an isolated town. Churches and schools of a high order are maintained, and three daily papers are published, the Carson Appeal, Nevada Tribune, and Evening Herald.
