Helena, Lewis and Clarke Co, P O, County seat and Capital of the Territory, is in the midst of one of the richest mining regions of Montana, 12 miles west of the Missouri, and is a large, prosperous and well built city of about 8,000 inhabitants. A large portion of the city is constructed of brick, granite, and blue limestone, obtained in the vicinity.
Numerous large and elegant churches, schools, and other public buildings have been erected. It is supported by the surrounding rich quartz and placer mines, which give remunerative employment to a large number of miners. Highly productive lands stretch along the beautiful streams of the Ten Mile, Silver and Prickly Pear, upon which about two hundred ranches are located within sight of the city, producing a sufficient supply of cattle, dairy produce, and vegetables to meet its wants. The adjacent mountains, which are covered with forests of pine and fir trees, furnish it with an abundance of fuel, and supply logs for several saw mills, which are constantly employed in producing lumber for building purposes. Water for domestic, mining, and agricultural purposes, is plentifully obtained from the various streams and mountain springs in the neighborhood. Hot springs, possessing rare medicinal properties, exist about three miles to the northeast of the city, and are a popular resort for invalids and pleasure seekers. Daily hi-weekly stage lines keep up a constant and regular communication with Cheyenne, Corrinne, Virginia City, Fort Benton, and other places. Two daily papers are published, the Independent and the Herald, which also issue weekly editions.
