BUSINESS NOTICES.

One of the most extensive depots in Oakland for the supply of wood and coal is that of J. Homer Fritch, 413 Eleventh Street. His stock of foreign and domestic coals is large and amply sufficient to meet the demands of this city and vicinity. Mr. Fritch is the agent of the popular Eastport Coos Bay coal, which heads the list of Coast coals for family use. There are over six hundred tons of coal per month sold by the different dealers in this city.

Messrs. O. K. Freeman & Co., who are located on the northwest corner of Eighth and Franklin streets, are also engaged in the wood and coal trade. Their stock of foreign and domestic coals is large, and they are the sole agents for Alameda County for the celebrated Wellington coal.
