The legislative limits of the City and County of San Francisco are co-extensive being bounded on the north and east by the bay, on the south by the county of San Mateo, and on the west by the Pacific ocean. The southern boundary line separates townships numbers two and three, running due west from the bay to the Pacific. The city and county may be considered nearly square, averaging six and a half miles each way, embracing an area of 42 square miles, or 26,861 acres, of which 5,000 are within the former city charter line; 8,000 are capable of cultivation, 7,861 are rocks, drifting sand and water; 4,500 are adapted for pasturage, and 1,500 within the Presidio reservation. Of the 8,000 acres outside the charter line and capable of cultivation, there are planted, in potatoes, about 1,200 acres; in market gardens, 600; grain and grass, 800; fruit trees, 200, and in untilled lands 5,200 acres.
