INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD TEMPLARS.

Instituted in California February 22, 1855, by the organization of Pacific Lodge No. 1. Organized in New York, 1851. The order takes an advanced position on all questions allied to temperance reform. Its fundamental principles are truth, rectitude, virtue and sobriety; total abstinence from all intoxicating drinks as a beverage; no license in any form or under any circumstances for the sale of such liquors to be used as a beverage; the prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors, expressed by the will of the people, and embodied in just laws; the creation of a healthy public opinion upon the subject; persistence in all well-directed and humane efforts to reclaim the fallen, and save others from falling victims. There are in this city four Bands of Hope, and the following-named lodges:

Its objects are to encourage temperance and total abstinence among Catholic men and boys. The members of the junior branches are pledged to total abstinence until reaching the age of twenty-one. The members of the senior branches are of two classes: First, those who are pledged to total abstinence, and second, those who while not pledged to total abstinence promise "not to drink in a saloon or place where liquors are sold, never to send a child to such a place, not to treat or be treated therein, and to discourage the custom of drinking in saloons." To hold the larger boys in the League, a new and interesting feature was added in 1893. The First Regiment, League of the Cross Cadets, was organized by Col. W. P. Sullivan, Jr., in conjunction with Right Rev. Bishop Montgomery. The government is vested in the Executive Committee, consisting of Most Rev. P. W. Riordan, Archbishop of San Francisco; Rev.
