

No Other Truck Has It

Look under the hood of any other truck on the market and you won't find it. Yet it is the biggest improvement which has been put on motor trucks within recent years.

The Clydesdale Automatic Controller, commonly called "The Driver Under the Hood."

The finest assembly of parts ever put together can be utterly ruined within a few weeks' time by careless, ignorant drivers.

The Clydesdale has, we believe, the highest grade, best made parts of any truck on the market.

But the important point is that every moving part—motor, transmission, axle, etc., are thoroughly protected against straining, breaking, and unnecessary wear by this remarkable little device.

It automatically controls the motor at all speeds. The driver has nothing to do with the motor. He can't abuse it. He can't let it race. He can't shoot in the gas suddenly by jamming down the accelerator pedal, and strain and shock every moving part.

The controller opens and closes the throttle automatically, depending upon the changing conditions of road and load—keeping the truck moving at the fixed speed determined by the position of the throttle lever, just as the most expert driver would do it if he had nothing to do but watch the mo. . . You can see for yourself what a big saving this means.
