

Larkin SPECIALTY MANUFACTURING CO.

915 Linden Avenue — South San Francisco — California

Our name has been respected in the field of metal stamping, drawing and forming for a half century. With our complete tool and die shop and production facilities under one roof our customers have the obvious advantage of several coordinating minds engaged in the development and manufacture of their products. This integrated effort assures the best article possible and at the right price.

Our wire department is pardonably proud of its reputation in the trade. Automatic high-speed machines and skilled journeymen turn out an unbelievable variety of intricate parts from wire and coil. You may now be buying a part that is a press stamping which could be made for less on a fully automatic 4-slide machine. Have you considered this possibility?

Remember . . . no job is too small and few are too large for Larkin to handle economically. The word "Specialty" in our name tells the story. We handle many jobs that just do not fit the inflexible set-up of most manufacturing plants. Send us your problem. Our solution will add your name to a long list of friends and customers.
