

LOCKEFORD,

Situated on the Mokelumne river, 18 miles northeasterly from Stockton, is the oldest of the rural villages in the County. It has a population of about 200.

Ambrose W. B., principal Lockeford district school.

Armstrong Burrel, house owner.

Brunell Moses, dealer in drugs and general merchandise.

Clements Thomas, hop farmer.

Cotton Jeremiah, proprietor of saloon.

Coil James, wheelwright.

Cudner A. A., architect.

Evans T. C., saloon keeper.

Foote Dr. E. N., physic'an and surgeon.

Grant J. P., blacksmith and wagonmaker.

Haley J. H., saddle and harness manufacturer.

Herrington Wm. O., laborer.

Hodge K., farmer.

How Miss M. K., teacher Lockeford district school.

Hurd Mrs. A. Y.

Locke Doctor D. J., physician and surgeon, dealer in general merchandise, and post master.

Monroe P., manager for U. Monroe.

Owens G. W., wagonmaker and Justice of the Peace.

Ringer George, constable.

Rogers Isaac, proprietor saloon.

Roberts C.

Roberts John R.

Stacy Geo. G., blacksmith, wagon maker and painter.

Stone W. R., teacher Athearn district school.

Stevens Mrs. S. J.

Wilson George, boot and shoe maker.

Willetts Thomas, house owner.

Young J. R. & Co., wholesale and retail butchers.

Young Julius R., butcher.

PRINTING OF EVERY KIND
AT LOW RATES
BY BERDINE,

224 MAIN STREET, STOCKTON.

Fine Razors and Pocket Knives at HOGAN & SMITH'S, cor. Main and San Joaquin, Stockton