A dream come true
Forty years ago Nationwide Telephone Service was forecast in these words ~

“... the lines of this association ... will connect ... each and every city, town or place ... with every other city, town or place ... in ... the United States ...”
From the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's Charter, March, 1885

This map shows some of the more distant points in the United States and Canada actually called during a recent week by people of the Bay Cities—at once The Gateway of the Pacific and The Doorway of a Nation.

Thousands of other long distance calls are placed daily to points in Washington, Oregon, Nevada and California.

Fifteen million telephones in 70,000 cities and towns, within call of any telephone, any time—the realization of this vision of four decades ago.

Attractive rates to many cities are shown on another page in the front of this directory.
Ask your Long Distance Operator for rates to points not listed.
