

Telegrams, Cablegrams, Night Letters
 Letters may be sent from any Bell Telephone to the Western Union Telegraph Company's Office

It is a very simple matter to send any kind of a telegram by telephone. All you have to do is to go to your telephone and say "Western Union"—the telephone and telegraph operators do the rest. The following information and suggestions are given, however, for the purpose of facilitating the work and securing closer co-operation between the person sending the telegram and the one receiving and recording it.

1. Determine exactly what you wish to say. Writing out the telegram on a slip of paper will help you. Give the telephone number of the party addressed if possible—this facilitates delivery.
2. Signal the telephone operator in the usual way and say "Western Union."
3. Dictate your message to the answering telegraph operator, who will repeat same to you to insure correctness.
4. Telegrams may be sent collect from any Bell Telephone or may be paid for by the sender in the following manner:
 - (a) Charges for telegrams from subscribers' telephones will be billed against the telephone subscriber, even though the sender of the telegram may not be the subscriber.
 - (b) Charges for telegrams sent from attended public telephones should be collected by the attendant.
 - (c) Charges for telegrams sent from attended public telephones in hotels or from hotel rooms, should be collected by the hotel. The Telephone Company, in turn, will bill the hotel.
 - (d) Charges for telegrams sent from coin-box public telephones will be collected in the same manner as telephone charges are collected; that is, the telephone operator will advise the amount to be deposited.

JUST SAY "WESTERN UNION"
