ON THE COVER

U.S.S. Ranger, now a familiar sight to San Franciscans, is the first of the Forrestal-class giant attack carriers to cruise Pacific waters. Almost one-fifth of a mile long, the Ranger has a crew of 3,500 men and over 100 aircraft. The area of the canted flight deck is almost four acres. This fortified floating city has many features of a good sized community, including 2,300 telephones.
